

Transition Planning

What will my child do after high school?

VISIONS Transition Planning for Parents can help you prepare with your child for the future.

What is VISIONS?

Visions provides a basic, yet comprehensive summary of what every parent of a child with an IEP needs to know about Transition Planning. Transition Planning is a process designed to identify student goals for life after high school (further education, work, or both) and steps necessary to meet those goals. Presenters will include school transition specialists, parents, and community members.
